

A Future in Food, Farming and the Environment

A Career to Consider

20th October 2011

9am - 4pm

With Adam Henson of BBC TV Countryfile
Askham Bryan College, York, YO23 3FR

We would like to invite you to a conference which will highlight the wide range of highly skilled career opportunities available in the food, farming and environmental sectors.

We constantly need to attract talented individuals to drive our industry and regional economy forward. To do this we want to showcase some of the opportunities within this rapidly developing sector and highlight the fantastic careers available.

Event format:

Introduction on arrival

Tour around 4 sectors: Farm to Fork, Going Green, Social Responsibility and Science and Business.

Businesses will be available to show an understanding of each sectors and career paths available.

Followed by a summary of the day. Closing with an optional short tour of the college. (This is recommended as it will demonstrate the practicality of the theory behind each stage.)

Some of the businesses you can talk to:

National Farmers Union, Bishopton Veterinary Group, English Beef and Lamb Executive, McCain Foods, Velcourt, Renewable Energy Growers, Countryside Alliance, Environment Agency, Local Authorities, Farming and Wildlife Advisory Group, Royal Agricultural Benevolent Institution, Science City York, York University, The Food and Environment Research Agency, Ripon Farm Services, Quantec Solutions, British Society of Animal Science, Savills, Smiths Gore

Pre-registration is required and lunch is provided.

To reserve a free place and for further information contact:

Liz Hudson

The Food and Farming Forum

t: 07702 598108

e: elizabethh@yas.co.uk

Following the success of last year, please book early to avoid disappointment.

In partnership with -

ASKHAM BRYAN COLLEGE

THE FOOD AND FARMING FORUM

fera
The Food and Environment Research Agency